Flavours from the Amalfi Coast

Dining Club

40 years ago Rosa Maria and I rented a Villa on the hills above Nerano, a fishing village at the western end of the Amalfi coast. A restaurant on the rocks in the village was our favourite, particularly for their “linguine alla Nerano”.

Quattro Passi, Nerano

Over the years we have noticed it enjoying a higher profile, earning a Michelin Star and promoting our favourite dish on the internet. Yet, when we visited it from our chartered yacht three years ago, we found that it had retained its character of simplicity and excellent cuisine.

Just recently we have learnt of its arrival in London as QPLDN (Quattro Passi), 34 Dover Street. On 12 December we have arranged a Dining Club meeting at this inspiring Restaurant for 7 p.m. They will offer a special Menu with a welcoming glass of Champagne, followed by 3 courses and wine from the Amalfi area.

All for £45
