RAPHAEL VRBINAS

Raphael (Urbino 1483 –
Rome 1520)
Self Portrait 1499

The Tour will concentrate on revisiting Raffaello Sanzio's places and life in 16 C. Rome and review our understanding of artists and patrons in what was then the Capital of Arts, Religion and Politics in the Italian Peninsula. We will try to capture all sides of Raphael's Art in Rome where, after his arrival between 1507/8, he acted as Painter and Decorator for Pope Julius II (della Rovere) and after Pope Julius's death of Pope Leo X (Medici), in the Vatican Palace. In 1514 Raphael was nominated by Leo X architect of St Peter but as aid to its main architect Bramante. In the summer of this very year, after the death of Bramante his great friend and teacher, he was promoted to full architect of St Peter and the Vatican Palaces.

In August 1515, Raphael was nominated again by the Pope "Conservator of Roman Antiquities". Let us remember that during the second decade of the 16 C. in various areas of Ancient Rome the Greek Statues of the Torso Belvedere and the Laocoon were discovered by builders clearing the area: Michelangelo and Raphael were both called to come and see them and advise whether it was worth to dig them out or leave them.....

The Laocöon, Roman Copy from Greek Original, 200 BC

We will visit some of these areas trying to imagine and recreate in our minds what these parts of Rome would have been like in Raphael's time during the High Renaissance. We will see the statues that inspired him later in our visit, during our Tour of the Vatican.

Hotel: Santa Chiara (Tel. 0039 066872979), a Family run Hotel, well located close to the Pantheon, by numerous restaurants and situated in the very Centre of Rome.
