Meet at the Reception Desk of the V&A

(Each visit is restricted to 6 people. Masks must be worn)

Pope Hennessy wrote in one of his publications on the Cartoons in 1950 ‘The value of the Cartoons rests not in the fact that this or that head has the heightened expressiveness or the added force that Raphael’s brush could alone give, but they show us the main scenes in the history of Early Christianity interpreted by one of the world’s greatest artists in his full maturity.’

The Cartoon Visit will be repeated due to the small number of people allowed in a group.
